

INSIGHT

WTC COMMUNITY WEEKLY

Kitchen Art

Have you ever heard of tampah? It's a cheap traditional winnowing tray made from bamboo and is widely used to sieve rice.

It's normally found in a kitchen, which is why, these past few days, Indonesian netizens find it funny to see it hung on the bedroom and priced for US$ 299 on a foreign e-commerce site.

Indeed design inspiration can take many forms. From tampah to wine bottles, plates and tea cups, cutlery and napkins, everything can be turned into artsy décor.

I made one myself. Wrapped the middle part of a glass milk bottle with jute craft rope and used it as a vase for dried lavender. It looks rustic, I was actually quite pleased.

Have you ever used any kitchen items as decoration?

UPCYCLING

Find 20 easy upcycles for old kitchen gear on hgtv.com/how-to

Yours trully,
the community editor