WTC COMMUNITY WEEKLY

Ready to Help Save a Life?

Donating blood is a quick, easy way to play a part in saving someone's life - and yours.

To donate, there are certain requirements one needs to fulfill. They include good health, aged between 17 to 65 and weighed a minimum of 45 kgs. One must also wait at least 3 months before the last donation.

For some, the idea of being injected with a needle and seeing your blood flows out can be unnerving. However, it can also reveal potential health problems, reduce harmful iron stores, lower risk of suffering a heart attack or developing a cancer and help your liver stay health.

When you think of it that way, it's actually worthy, isn't it? But if you're still unsure, why not drop by to WTC Blood Donation on June 17th and ask the experts yourself. See you there!

Yours truly,
the community editor
