

INSIGHT

WTC COMMUNITY WEEKLY

(Can't) Breathe Easy

This past week, the air quality in Jakarta has been deteriorating.

The latest data from IQAir, an international apex body monitoring air quality, has ranked the capital as the most polluted city in the world by scoring 193 on the air quality.

According to the analysis from the Meteorology, Climatology, and Geophysics Agency (BMKG), there are numerous factors that contribute to the dangerous pollution such as emissions and local sources such as transportation, residential, and industrial areas that are located nearby.

Residents are advised to wear masks when leaving the house or doing activities outside the home, reduce outdoor activities, close windows to avoid dirty air, and complement the room with air purification tools.

Yours truly,

the community editor

Bring a Plant Home

The plants next to the F45 building are available for sale. Contact Duduh at 0857.0376.4649 for more information.