WTC COMMUNITY WEEKLY

Preparing for Rainy Days

It was gloomy, dark, and there was a rumbling thunder as I wrote this newsletter. The first things my mind wondered to were "is it raining in my house? will it be flooded again?"

Yes. I unfortunately live in a flood path and I have experienced flood three times in the past three years.

Each time was a lesson and so here are my tricks to minimize the damage:

- Put all valuables and important documents in an airtight, waterproof box and store it in a high place.
- Move all possible furniture, tie up your curtains to where water can't reach them and secure electrical outlets and devices.
- Wrap your bed, sofa in waterproof sheets or plastic if you can't move it. They're expensive to wash and vacuum - I learnt this the hard way.
- Relocate your vehicles, put a jack under and cover the exhaust pipes.
- Pack an emergency bag with spare clothes, undergarments, phone chargers, power bank, instant food, snack, water, medicine, flashlight, toiletries - all the basic necessities.
- Install a flood gate on your door, or stack sand bags to slow the flow.
