WTC COMMUNITY WEEKLY

World Cup in Indonesia

Following the disappointment after failing to host the U20 World Cup this May, Indonesia has received a couple of consolations in recent week.

Last Tuesday, the U22 national football team brought home gold after beating Thailand 5-2 in the 2023 SEA Games Final. The last time was 32 years ago.

A winners' parade -along with other athletes who won- was stretched from Senayan to Bundaran HI, passing our very own WTC Complex.

Adding to that, announcement has been made that World Cup Winners Argentina will be playing a friendly against Indonesia at Gelora Bung Karno Stadium on June 19. The visit will be a part of an Asian tour by the South American side that also includes a June 15 stop in Beijing to play Australia.

Whether you're a football fan or not, the name Leo Messi must've been a familiar one. Believed by many as the GOAT (greatest of all time), this could be your only chance to watch La Pulga live before he hangs his boots.

So, are you ready for another ticket war?

Yours truly,
the community editor
