WTC COMMUNITY WEEKLY

Photojournalism

There is a saying that a picture tells a thousand stories. That there is a reason behind it, a message to convey, and an emotion to feel. And this is what photojournalism does.

In journalism, photography can be incredibly powerful. Time and again, photojournalists are the ones who define how people understand major events — but they can also capture the details of daily life and the concerns of local citizens.

This Tuesday, Jakarta Land & PermataBank were delighted to present Permata Photojournalist Grant XII: Inspiration. The theme highlights the stories of female figures who made a real impact on their families, communities and their surroundings. Exhibition can be found at WTC 2 lobby until August 18.

Last month, we held a photography competition for the WTC tenants themed Life at WTC. Shortlisted photos from over 100 submissions will be displayed at WTC 3 lobby and winners will be announced in August.

Yours truly,
the community editor
