Welcoming the New Year

We have all experienced the excitement of counting down the clock on December 31st, barbecuing with friends and family, watching the fireworks from crowded places, and dealing with loud noises, blinding lights and horrendous traffic jam,

In Jakarta, free New Year's eve festivities can be found at Bundaran HI (Hotel Indonesia roundabout) where 11 entertainment stages will be lined out along the Sudirman-Thamrin road. The National Monument square, or Monas, is also an option, as well as Ancol Beach, Taman Mini Indonesia Indah and JIExpo Kemayoran. Music concerts and fireworks display are to be expected. To avoid a sea of people, you can also go to shopping malls, most would have their own New Year's events.

And before you decide whether you'll stay in or go out this Sunday, just know that public transportation such as MRT, TransJakarta and LRT are extending their service hour to 02:00.

Anyways, congratulations on making through 2023 and may 2024 be even better.

Yours truly,
