Sporting Heroes

Last week, the sporting communities around the globe -and people in general- were saddened by the passing of Argentina's legendary footballer Diego Maradona. El Pibe de Oro (The Golden Boy) was so well known he became a household name.

The world also bid farewell to other sporting heroes such as Kobe Bryant (basketball), Don Larsen (baseball) and Henri Richard (hockey) earlier this year. And the list goes on.

Sport is a compelling tool to promote health, discipline, fairness, respect, tolerance, and understanding, bringing people together across boundaries, cultures, and religions. It provides a common ground for many and the players become role models for children and adults alike.

Almost everyone has someone they look up to in sports. An idol they aspire to be, a persona they wish to emulate. So who's yours and why? Share with us at @wtcjakarta on Instagram, and as always, stay healthy!

Yours trully,
