Investing in Indonesia

We are less than three weeks away to the year 2021. And with a new year, comes a new beginning. One universal hope is to see the world winning the fight against the coronavirus. There are already vaccines on clinical trials with high, promising success rate and if people can be more consistent with the 3Ms (mask on, mandatory hand-wash, maintain distance), we actually have a good chance.

New years also mean new opportunities. In jobs, in businesses, in personal life, in everything. Now, if one of your new resolutions for next year is to invest more in a business in Indonesia, there are at least three things you need to understand first: regulations, diversity, capital.

There are of course differences in regulations for local companies and foreign companies. But the general process consists of three stages: getting approval on the establishment of your company, having an identification number to operate, and getting the operational or commercial license.

Next Tuesday, Jakarta Land and Vistra will be discussing the whole set up process and the effects of the newly enacted Omnibus Law. Register yourself on <https://tinyurl.com/webinarWTC> and have your questions answered by the experts. See you then!

Yours trully,
